

About Training & Placement Cell

A placement cell is a vital part of any educational institution, serving as a bridge between students and potential employers. Its primary goal is to provide placement assistance, counseling, and logistic support to facilitate successful recruitment drives.

Key Objectives:

- Create awareness about employment opportunities in various sectors
- Equip students with essential skills for the job market
- Organize orientation programs to prepare students for specific fields
- Facilitate campus recruitments for leading organizations

Placement Cell Activities:

- Conducting seminars and workshops on soft skills, personality development, and interview preparation
- Inviting industry experts for guest lectures and career guidance
- Providing training for faculty members to enhance placement activities
- Maintaining a database of students and researchers for effective placement support

Benefits for Students:

- Enhanced employability skills
- Exposure to top recruiters and industry leaders
- Access to career guidance and counseling
- Opportunities for internships, projects, and final placements
